BURGER CONSIDERS CONVENTION DELEGATE QUESTION

CHIEF JUSTICF Warren E. Burger Thursday temp orarily delayed a lower court order ousting Chicago Richard J. Daley's 59-member Democratic convention delegation and awarding 153 disputed delegates to Sen. George S McGovern. Burger's order gave him more time to consider an urgent appeal from the Democratic National Committee that he reassemble the Supreme Court from its summer recess to consider overturning the appellate court's California decision. The appeals court Wednesday, in a 2-1 decision, overturned the vote of the Democratic Credentials Committee last week to take 153 California delegates from McGovern and distribute them to his rivals in the June 6 winner-take-all primary. The decision whether to bring the court back an act with a few precedents — could be made by Burger acting alone or in consultation with other members. Burger did not indicate when he would take further ac-

The River Rouge plant — one of the largest in the world — sprawls over 1,200 acres and is the heart of heavily required heart in the county of heavily populated, heavily industrialized downriver Detroit. # Mother and Daughter Share a Flair For Writing, a Vim For Adventure

By SYLVIA ROSENFELD

As any budding author knows, often to his regret, getting published is Thus, a family which boasts not one but two published authors - one a poetess and writer of children's stories, the other the author of humorous magazine pieces on weekend yachting or flying — is a rarity, indeed.

And meeting Mrs. Ernestine Cob ern Beyer of Quincy and her daughter, Mrs. Barbara Malley of Country Lane, confirms the impression that theirs is an unusual family boasting considerable ta lents.

Mrs. Beyer, for instance, recently won the National League of American Penwomen's first prize for a religious poem and — at the age of 78 — flew to age of 78 -- flew to Washington to receive her award.

While there she enjoyed tea at the White House and so impressed Congressman James A. Burke with her vitality, enthusiasm and spontaneity at luncheon the next day that he invited her to attend a session of Congress where he publicly praised her — later sending her a copy of the page in the Congressional Record where his speech was recorded, complete with a copy of her winning poem.

In addition, her poems have appeared in Ideals, Weekly appeared Unity, Ladies Home Journal, Harpers, Saturday Evening Post and a number of children's magazines.

Mrs. Malley, on the other and, is building her hand, is building her reputation as a humorous writer. During the years when she and her husband, Edward, were raising their four children in Cohasset, weekends aboard their boat were their number one form of recreation. Enjoying a natural experience and participation in a creative art; also, a demonstration of what can be accomplished through a cooperative volunteer effort.

will be the Republican candidate for President in 1976 and that he considers Senator Buckley better fitted for that role than Vice President Agnew

2. Buckley would give the President more political help in the northern states than would Mr. Agnew. Why that would be so, except possibly in New York State, is not clear to this observer.

An unusual thing about Senator Buckley, incidentally, is that he lives in Connecticut but represents New York State in the upper branch of Congress. Vice President Agnew campaigned vig-orously for Buckley and played a prominent part in making possible his election in 1970.

One reason we believe President Nixon will not drop Vice President Agnew is that Spiro would be abig help to him in the court Whatever and ABA should provide some pointers. They both struggled, big help to him in the court Whatever and ABA should provide some pointers. They both struggled, used to be next winter. Two big help to him in the south. What the Republican espionage agents were attempting to do, he informs us, was to remove the sensitive and sophisticated electronic equipment they had placed there a month earlier so it could be installed in Democratic National Chairman Larry O'Brien's Miami Beach hotel suite during the Democratic National Convention.

Washington is still buzzing about the weird raid which has resulted in a $1 Million invasion-of-privacy suit by Democratic Chairman O'Brien against President Nixon's Campaign Committee.

This has brought predictions from many Democratic politicians in the south, who fear that Senator George McGovern would run poorly there, that Nixon may carry every state in their section of the country.

Agnew was a big help to Nixon in southern and border states in 1968, and he presumably would be significant that help.

On that basis a shift from Agnew to Buckley would not make much sense.

ANGRY WALLACE CONSIDERS THIRD PARTY ROUTE

THE POSSIBILITY has become "stronger and stronger" that George C. Wallace will again bolt the Democratic party and form a third party movement, an aide said today. Charles Snider, campaign director for the Alabama governor, said Wallace would decide in what direction to move "in the very near future"— once the convention was over. Wallace had said Mon-day he had no plan to make a third-party bid but Snider made it clear that Wallace was angry that the conven-tion had voted down Tuesday night changes he wanted to make in the platform on busing and other matters. Wallace appealed for the revisions in a speech from his wheel chair before the convention.

McGOVERN SEARCHES FOR NO. 2

AS GEORGE S. McGOVERN stood ready to seize the Democratic nomination, some governors pleaded Wednesday for him to turn to a moderate or the magic name of Kennedy for a running mate, to head off a suicidal party revolt. But Edward M. Kennedy, before boarding his yacht off Hyannisport, declared he would not accept the second spot. Late in the day, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas joined Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie in bowing out of the race. Mills left himself open for a vice presidential offer and his name was mentioned by a group of southern and border state governors who met with McGovern. McGovern, one week from his 50th birthday, was reportedly concentrating his choices on 4 or 5 other names, including Leonard Woodchoices on 4 or 5 other names, including Leo cock, president of the United Auto Workers.

CRIME RATE RISES. BUT JUST A LITTLE

SERIOUS CRIME rose just 1 per cent in the first 3 months of the year, with major declines in the zooming rate of lawlessress in the nation's big cities, it was announced Wednesday. It was the lowest quarterly in crease since 1962, the FBI said. The preliminary report was announced by Attorney General Richard G. Klein-dienst and came midway through the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach where Richard M. Nixon launched his "law and order" presidential campaign four years ago. The Justice Department said crime actually fell over-all in the nation's six largest cities. Washington, D.C., the administration's showcase for its anticrime effort, had a whopping 30 per cent reduction for the three-month period, compared with a decrease of 18 per cent a year ago.

SEEK MORE IMPORTED MEAT TO LOWER PRICES

HOLDING UP the bait of increased meat quotas in 1973 if they cooperate now, the administration met with  $\alpha$  elegates from 12 meat-exporting nations Wednesday in nopes of boosting beef and veal imports to drive down the price of meat for American husewives. With spiraling meat prices eroding the administration's anti-inflation program, President Nixon suspended meat quotas for toreign countries on June 26. It did not result in an increase of foreign meat on the U.S. market and the ministration is now seeking to reward countries that will increase their meat exports.

PROTESTANTS PARADE IN ULSTER UNDER HEAVY GUARD

PROTESTANTS MARCHED through driving rain Wednesday in a celebration of their 282-year-old victory over Roman Catholics that also was marked by shooting over Roman Cathonis that also was marked by should deaths and bombing in Northern Ireland. In Belfast, about 25,000 Protestants marched, but "the troops and police outnumbered the marches, for heaven sake," a police and 8,000 militiamen were on duty, many of them patrolling streets, rooftops and barbed wire barriers along the march route. An estimated 200,000 Protestants our community who may be high school students. marched in parades throughout the province. ## FISCHER CONCEDES FIRST GAME TO SPASSKY

WORLD CHESS Champion Boris Spassky of Russia defeated Bobby Fischer in the first game of their $250,-000 championship match Wednesday, putting the unpre-dictable Araerican one point behind in what could be a 24-game series. Fischer, who had stopped play in the game for 35 minutes to protest the presence of two closed circuit television cameras high above the contest stac., conceded to the Russian on the 56th move. He gave up when he saw he could not prevent Spassky moving his only surviving pawn to the last rank, thus allowing Spassky to exchange it for a queen, the most powerful piece in the game. Fischer stood up, made a nelplecs gesture to the audience, and walked off. The second game was scheduled for today. second game was scheduled for today.

SARGENT PLANS $100 MILLION BUDGET CUTBACK

THE STATE is planning a sweeping economic cut-back that is designed to chop up to $100 million off the state's budget, the Boston Herald Traveler and Record American reported Wednesday. "Details of the slash— one of the biggest in the state's history— were spelled out to agency neads in a directive issued by the Sargent administration's commissioner of administration, Robert L. Yas," it was reported. The order reportedly calls for "furloughing' 2,200 temporary state employees and laying off scores of consultants and specialists as part of a move to save up to $18.6 million

WHITE PREDICTS BOSTON SCHOOL SHUTDOWN

GOV. FRANCIS W. Sargent's veto of a bill to free $52 million in state aid for Boston schools means the schools will have to shut down by mid-November until after New Year's Day, Mayor Kevin H. White claimed Wednesday. White also predicted "payless paydays" for city workers in mid-November. His comments came less than 24 hours after Sargent vetoed the bill because he felt it would "short circuit" the state's Racial Imbalance Act. White replied "What he's really doing is to blow the fuse on the entire city of Boston.

Four Years To Go

Back in 1966 Congress and President Johnson figured 10 years would just about provide ample time to get ready for 1976 and a real all-out observation of the nation's 200th birthday. They created the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission and gave it a broad, sweeping "go-ahead" signal.

In Massachusetts and Boston, the concept of a tremendous year-long celebration struck an instant, enthusiastic response. Initially, folks started reviewing our proper place in the observation and decided it should just about be center stage. Lexington - Concord - Bunker Hill - Faneuil Hall - Sam Adams -Paul Revere.

All kinds of heroic ideas were germinated. Maybe, something like a World's Fair. Maybe, a 200th anniversary bequest to posterity like putting our Boston Harbor islands to work as top-level spot of culture and recreation.

Somewhere along the line Boston and the Bay State dreams for center stage in the year-long birthday party got sidetracked. Then came July 4, 1970, Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania announced President Nixon had selected Philadelphia as the site of the official bicentennial international exposition

After all, it was in that city the Declaration of Independence was signed on July 4, 1776.

Four years had gone by since President Johnson signed the bill creating the Bicentennial Commission. Some progress toward laying a foundation for the final amalgamation of plans had been made, but very little.

Now the work could proceed. First on the agenda was the choice of a site. The Philadelphia 1976 Bizentennial Corporation tackled that task. Fairmount Park, where Philadelphia staged a Centennial Exposition in 1876, drew early attention. It was quickly killed by the stern opposition of open-space adherents when it

Then from some imaginative source came the proosal to take the air rights over the Penn Central's Thirtieth street station along with some adjecent property. After the plans had been drawn it was found the total cost would be around $1.2 billion in federal funds alone. "Too much," said the Nixon administration.

The Philadelphia site search — hampered by much bickering — goes on. There are still four years to go before the big celebration. Boston and other historic centers besides Philadelphia will have a role in

Maybe the nation's lucky. As many a veteran society hostess would be able to tell the august American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, those last minute, spur-of-the-moment parties seem to go over best. The trouble with that reasoning is that the passing of every day brings us closer to July 4, 1976.

"However, the final decision will be deferred until before the Republican convention," Mr. Nixon concluded.

In view of that appraisal of Vice President Agnew, it is difficult to figure out how Mr. Nixon could or would give the heave-ho to Spiro. Why he is delaying his announcement on Vice President Agnew's immediate political future is not Some political pundits believe he is trying to give what suspense he can to a Republican national convention which promises to be drab and dull. But the President is not going to manufacture much synthetic excitement for the GOP conclaves by announcing a week or two in advance of it that Spiro Agnew will or will not be his running mate a second time. President Nixon is not the type of public official who would leave the choice of the Vice Presidential nominee to the convention delegates, as Franklin D.

Droney-O'Leary Contest Looms As Interesting One

Boston City Councillor Gerald O'Leary was in California campaigning for Senator George McGovern when he announced his candidacy for the U. S. Senate by long-distance telephone.

So it is assumed that he was encouraged by Mc-Govern lieutenants and possibly by the Senator himself to get into the Senate fight.

O'Leary was defeated by Middlesex County Distrct Attorney John J. Droney for the endorsement of the Democratic State Convention but now is opposing Droney in the Democratic primary,

It may seem somewhat unusual that two public officials would engage in a political fight for the privilege of standing against Senator Edward W. Brooke in the November election, but that is precisely what Droney and O'Leary are doing.

O'Leary is a liberal candidate of the stamp of Senator McGovern whose cause he championed. Droney, a highly able and respected prosecutor, is a law and order man. His political philosophy is closer to that of President Nixon than are the views of Senator Brooke. The clash between Droney and O'Leary will be the

Talk Of Sargent-Richardson Fight Is Just Day-Dreaming

A columnist, doubtless filling up space with some political day-dreaming, speculated recently on the pos-sibility of a convention or primary battle in 1974 be-tween Francis W. Sargent and Elliot L. Richardson for 13 Wed. Newton South 3:30 the Republican nomination for Governor.

It made interesting reading because Sargent and Richardson are cousins, and in 1966 Richardson, then Lieutenant Governor, joined with John A. Volpe in swinging the necessary votes to Sarge to give him the 21 Thur. Camb. Latin 3:30 endorsement of the Republican State Convention.

Sargent, then a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, probably would have been defeated at the convention by Representative Francis W. Hatch, Jr., of Beverly except for the help Volpe and Richardson gave him.

But a 1974 fight between cousins Sargent and Richardson is not likely to materialize.

In the first place, Mr. Sargent by then will have served six years in the Governorship and probably will have had his fill of the job if he hasn't had it already. The possibility of his running again seems rather remote.

If he should run again, however, it is highly improbable that Elliot Richardson would challenge him either at the State Convention or in the primary.

Mr. Sargent, strangely, seems to have less influence in his own party now than he had when he was serving as interim Governor and was preparing to seek election to the Governorship in his own right.

But if he should be a candidate in 1974, it is extremely unlikely that he would be denied renomination by his own party or that the nomination would be worth much if he were. Elliot Richardson, an astute student of politics, realizes that more clearly than most political writers.

Neil Sullivan's Departure Good Thing For Education

The general reaction of persons in the educational field to the news that State Education Commis-23 Mon, at Needham 3:30 sioner Neil Sullivan will quit his post here to return to California, has been that it's too bad it didn't happen

Like virtually all the other persons imported from the other side of the United States to assume high public positions here, Sullivan was a flop. This is not surprising if one stops to remember that a Pat Brown was able to become Governor of California. Maybe it's something in the climate!

Sullivan was too abrasive, too unbending, too overwhelmed with a sense of his own importance. It is to be hoped that the next State Education Commissioner will work with rather than against local School Boards in his efforts to achieve his objectives. Boston School Committee Chairman James W. Hennigan pretty well echoed the feelings of many city and town school officials when he expressed the hope and belief that the next Education Commissioner will work more closely with local school boards than did

Soviet Officials In New Crackdown On Dissenters

too many people dine out on them. Why? Who knows. Sometimes they're nicer, and friendlier than Saturday and Sunday...Come dine with us on poor Monday and Tuesday. You'll be the lucky one...there's no crowd, your waitress has more time to fuss over you, the pace is slower, and conversations, quieter. You'll see a meal can still be a leisurely luxury thanks to poor Monday and Tuesday's undeserved unpopularity!

PRESIDENTIAL adviser Henry A. Kissinger con-ferred privately with North Vietnam's two top peace negotiators Wednesday, seeking an end to the war. The meeting was announced in an unprecedented joint com-munique from Washington and Hanoi. Later in the day, the White House announced the session lasted more than six hours, from 10 a.m. to 4:39 p.m. Paris time. Kissinger flew back to Washington immediately after meeting with Le Duc Tho, Communist party politburo member from Hanoi, and Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation at the Paris peace talks. It was the 14th meeting between Kissinger and Tho since last summer White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler Kissinger would confer immediately with President Nixon on his return to Washington. "Both sides agreed not to reveal the substance of these talks," Ziegler added. The joint announcement came amid signs that there might be diplomatic progress in the long and arduous regotiations on the war. The atmosphere was low key, but there were signs that administration officials were opimistic about progress. Kissinger, Nixon's High School and Newton High security affairs adviser, flew to Paris Tuesday for the School, In 1946 she became secret talks after conferring with Nixon at his Western Director of Girls Physical secret talks after conferring with Nixon at his Western Director of White House in California. ## AFL-CIO COUNCIL VOTES NOT TO ENDORSE McGOVERN

THE AFL-CIO Executive Council, long a bulwark of Democratic political strength, followed President George M Meany's wishes Wednesday and voted not to endorse either Sen. George S. In a "plague on both your houses" statement, Meany told newsmen after the council action: "I will not endorse, I will not support and I will not vote for Richard Nixon as President. second te I will not endorse, I will not support and I will not vote from the for George McGovern for President." It marked the District. first time since the 13.6 million member labor organization was merged in 1955 that the council has declined to tion was merged in 1995 that the council has declined to back a Democratic presidential candidate. The mass of hot air, caused by a lack of breezes strong enough to move it, trapped pollutants at near dangerous levels in some areas, prompting the National Weather Service to issue "stagnation advisories" for New York, New Jersey, Connecticut Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The weather service also activated around-the-clock monitoring of pollution levels in most East Coast states. The heat wave, pollution levels in most East Coast states. # Miami Melody

Will the call for unity that resounded at the close of the Democratic Convention in Miami really be heard all the way up here in Massachusetts?

The answer to that is shaping up right now. The proof will be nakedly clear in November.

The delegates have returned to their homes in Norwood and Newton and Boston and other communities around the Bay State. In the ordinary course of past events a aclegate's moment of glory ends with the convention's final gavel. He usually packs up and heads home from the halls of hoopla and hurrah sodom to be heard from in the weeks that follow.

That won't be the case this time, we are told.

We hardly had a peep of the Massachusetts delegates faces on TV during the prime-time proceedings. But they will be seen and heard again if the promise made amid the Miami momentum for McGovern is to become a reality

There's no glamour to the work that lies ahead for the newcomers who are flushed with enthusiasm -and rightly so-from the McGovern victory in Miami. Getting people to vote for your man is grubby, grassroots work that demands unswerving patience and persistence that knows no air-conditioned luxury. Ringing doorbells while the sidewalks sizzle, turning away with a show of confidence from the disheartening apathy of a shrug, manning the phones over and over again when the "hello" turns to "ho-hum," these are the nitty-gritty heroics of politics that ultimately decide the winner.

McGovernites claim this is their meat. And they point to the convention to substantiate their claim. The fact that they got there in the first place is still a reason for head shaking among some of the stay-at-homes. There are those who belong to the McGovern machine who disclose disdain for the so-called old guard. They say there is no place in their campaign for compromise. How they hate that word "com-

But compromise is a political fact of life. The future success of the newcomers — and they are not exactly new if we remember 1968 — and the old guard demands a grinding out of differences that will result in a place and position for both sides of the Democratic party. The new politics in the party has taken much publicized aim on getting the young vote, but their exuberance and enthusiasm can't overshadow the absolute need of bringing out the registered establishment that has a fierce hold on the all important middle ground.

The hulking bulk of voters are not the young people who are between the ages of 18 to 21 or the senior citizens who are 65 and over. The most important segment, the class that will decide the ultimate outcome is the middle age voter who turns out to yank the lever election after election.

The middle ground, not the left and the right, is the important meeting ground for the new and the Presidential nominee and that it would cause a split old. And it is in this sphere that the new and the old in the Massachusetts delegation. politician must meet. "They need us. We need them."

That apparently killed Whit politician must meet. "They need us. We need them."

That apparently killed White's chances of being is able to get him back in line.

So says a local, veteran office holder whose political the No. 2 man on the Democratic ticket.

Senator McGovern, incident life has depended on getting the vote of the mighty middle in Massachusetts politics.

That's another way of saying "compromise." In this context the word can take on a new and acceptable meaning for McGovernites. Can the new force only sing: "We shall overcome." Or can they listen too? We think they can and will.

But there must be concern for next year. Actually that's only five months away and with it will come tax bills that initially will make your eyes pop.

A new law goes into effect this coming January one that guarantees that property tax bills received next year will be the largest ever. That's not because the 18-month period beginning January 1, 1973.

The new law puts cities, towns, counties and districts onto a July 1 to June 30 fiscal year that coincides Govern from the conservative state of South Dakota election. The hotel management had plenty of provocation for carrying out its threat. Business was at a standin the hotel A Viet Cong Flag, usually carried by the SDS, was draped over the reservations desk. The elevators were stopped. The bars were closed.

His voice trembled as he answered and fielded the questions screamed at him by Marti Rieffe whose manner suggested she felt she had every right to do what she was doing. The faces of the Secret Service men guarding McGovern were grim.

McGovern averted any violence, and he earned new respect for the way he handled himself on one of the most important nights of his life when he must have been under tremendous pressure.

Democratic Delegate Blasts McGovern, To Support Nixon

A prominent and influential delegate to the Democratic National Convention from Western Massachusetts walked out of the Miami Beach convention hall vowing to endorse President Nixon.

"I'm going back home and endorse Nixon," declared blunt, outspoken Matthew J. Ryan, Jr., district attorney for the Western District of Massachusetts and a powerful figure in that section of the State.

Ryan, who was one of seven Muskie delegates, who survived the McGovern sweep and were elected in the Presidential Primary last April, made it crystal clear that he was less than enchanted with McGovern, his staff members, his organization and many of his

McGovern, of course, was within his political prerogatives as the Presidential nominee in naming his own chairman of the Democratic National Committee and certainly in placing a woman in the position.

But the facts were not quite the way they were epresented to be although the situation was a conusing one.

O'Brien at first told McGovern he wasn't sure he wanted to continue as National Chairman and that he thought he wanted to return to private business. On the day McGovern announced his choice of O'Brien met, and O'Brien told the new head man of McGovern at times makes it sound as if the cuts the Democratic party that he had changed his mind

McGovern told O'Brien he would have to consider that further. He subsequently told members of the Democratic National Committee that O'Brien wanted to leave for personal reasons and that he had tried four times to persuade O'Brien to change his mind. He didn't say he evidently succeeded on the last

EAGLETON DISCLOSURE DISMAYS MCGOVERN FUND RAISERS

A SPOKESMAN for Sen, George McGovern said Wednesday that some of his fund raisers are dismayed at the disclosure that Sen, Thomas F. Eagleton has been under psychiatric care, but McGovern reaffirmed his full support for his running mate. "There have been some reports from the financial people that this is dismaying news for the fund raising people," press secretary Richard Dougherty said at a briefing. "But he feels that this will smooth out," Dougherty said of McGovern's reaction to the reports. One of the calls, Dougherty said, had come from Henry Kimelman, wealthy Virgin Islands businessman and McGovern's national finance chairman. Of the telegrams received at McGovern headquarters in Custer, S.D., 19 were opposed to keeping Eagleton on the ticket, and 12 were in favor. Dougherty said McGovern feels it is too early to tell how the public will react to the disclosure about his psychiatric care. "But his decision is to stick with Senator Eagleton and that's it.'

EAGLETON SAYS HE'LL "WAIT AND SEE"

SEN. THOMAS F. EAGLETON said Wednesday he would have to "wait and see" how the public reacts to disclosure of his past psychiatric treatment but that he felt personally he would emerge a stronger and wiser The Democratic vice presidential candidate faced another barrage of questions at a news conference, answering them fully and without apparent irritation after declaring Tuesday he had said his last on the subject of his "medical history." Eagleton was asked whether some sort of poll might be taken on whether he could be a handicap on the ticket with George S. McGovern, "We don't need to take a poll," the Missouri senator said, "We will just have to wait and see. The public has a way of expressing itself. Sometimes you feel it viscerally."

NIXON ORDERS HAND-OFF ON EAGLETON'S TREATMENT

PRESIDENT NIXON has ordered his staff and political spokesmen to refain from making any comment or a campaign issue of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's past or a campaign issue of Sein. Institute of the White House said Wednesday. "The President made it quite clear and has directed that there be no comment on personal matters, press secretary Ronald Ziegler told reporters, "That has been his view for a long time. He restated it yesterday." been his view for a long time. He restated it yesterday. Ziegler said Nixon's hands-off policy applied to all those authorized to speak for him, including Vice President Spiro T. Agniew. In New York, Nixon's campaign director, Clark MacGregor, said that "I concur 100 per cent" with President Nixon's decision. "The individual citizens will decide to the speak of the issue and they need with President Nixon's decision. "The individual citizens will decide for themselves on this issue, and they need no assistance from me." Eagleton's Republican as well as Democratic colleagues in the Senate rallied around him with expressions of support. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona, the GOP's 1964 presidential nominee, said on the Senate floor "I would hope this whole matter could immediately be dropped and forgotten..."

SOUTH VIETNAMESE HOIST FLAG ON QUANG TRI WALL

SOUTH VIETNAMESE paratroopers Wednesday hoisted their nation's red and yellow flag on a wall high above the Quang Tri city Citadel where "you can look down the throats of the North Vietnamese." UPI correspondent Arthur Higbee said paratroopers held the southeastern half of the 500-yard square Citadel and the North Vietnamese continued to fight in the southeastern half. The flag was raised on the highest point eastern half. The flag was raised on the highest point of a 20-foot thick brick and mortar citadel wall to give the paratroopers "not only a psychological advantage, but a tactical advantage," a U.S. adviser told Higbee. # COURT BARS INCUMBENTS' NAMES FIRST ON BALLOT

THE MASSACHUSETTS Supreme Judicial Court declared unconstitutional Wednesday a state law which requires that the names of incumbents be placed first on the ballot. Justice Paul C. Reardon, in a one sentence decree, ordered the secretary of state to cease printing of ballots for the Sept. 19 primary and ordered that new ballots be printed which "give each candidate an equal right and opportunity to be elected." Massachu. setts and California are the only two states which now give incumbents the advantage of first position on the ballot. Reardon's ruling came in a suit filed by three candidates for offices in Middlesex County—Paul E. Tsongas of Lowell and Mayor S. Lester Ralph of Somerville, who are running for county commissioner, and Paul G. Counihan of Concord who is seeking the county treasurer post. The suit alleged that "a candidate given a position at the head of the ballot has a disinct advantage over other candidates on the ballot, In violation of Article IX of the Massachusetts Consti-tution which guarantees all citizens "an equal right to elect officers, and to be elected for public employ-

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS By JAMES G. COLBERT

Meany Sets Poor Example In Declaring He Will Not Vote

When a candidate for the U.S. Senate accepts a big contribution from organized labor, he morally binds himself to vote with labor when it calls upon him to do so. This is one of the basic and fundamental rules of politics.

Senator George S. McGovern broke that rule, and that is why AFL-CIO President George Meany is so adamant in his opposition to the South Dakota Senator.

Meany has not exactly distinguished himself for suading the AFL-CIO Executive Council to stand neutral in the fight between President Nixon and Senator McGovern.

For that matter McGovern has not earned any medals for his own diplomacy. Instead of striving to heal the wounds of those who were steamrollered as he won the endorsement of the Democratic National Convention, he has periodically poured a little verbal acid into those wounds.

McGovern couldn't resist the temptation to direct a jibe at Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley when he arrived at Custer, S.D., to begin his vacation. He reminded the writer of James M. Curley who repeatedly coined a quip which convulsed his listeners with laughter and at the same time cost him votes.

N.Y. vs. Cacophony

One of the major by-products of big cities has been noise. The size of the city and the volume of noise were usually indicative — one of the other. Down through the decades cities have been trying to do something about it. It has been a losing cause.

Now comes the City of New York which has a pretty good track record coming up every now and then with praiseworthy drives to end unnessary noise. Of course, Gotham lost all past decisions with this evil, but this time the City Councl and Mayor Lindsay's latest prescription for bringing pastoral calm even to Broadway and Kennedy Airport, is getting real ballyhoo treatment from the media.

Near the turn of the century Boston thought it had struck a major blow in favor of peace and quiet when it replaced cobblestones on some non-Beacon Hill streets with a flat concrete-like surface. It took away the noise created by the contact of the metal shoes of the horses with the cobblestones. No decibel counters were available to measure the noise drop. Folks complained the new street surfaces cost too much and didn't wear as well as the cobblestones.

Despite the failures of the world's big cities, from the days of antiquity, to make near-quiet a part of their charm, it is nice to see New York launched on what is being hailed as the toughest anti-noise code in the nation.

Man has gone a long way in the science of sound since the days his first raw-hide drum intrigued him. His operas and great symphony orchestras are top manifestations of culture.

However, down through the years he has never lost his bent for creating cacaphony in all its most torturous, nerve-destroying forms. The fearful din of jet traffic around our airports has created a new way of life for thousands.

It is reassuring to know New York believes something can be done about this nuisance. The toughest anti-noise code in the nation will certainly make interesting reading.

Maybe, people will start moving to New York.

They were returning money - after the 53,000 capacity of the Stadium had been reached.

There's no question but that baseball long ensconced on its mythical throne as our national pastime by dissension and dissatisfaction. was seriously hurt last spring by the controversial battles between players, their representatives, the club owners and particularly the strike.

When McGovern first ran for the Senate, Meany helped to finance his campaign with a big contribution. Without that financial assistance, McGovern probably could not have achieved election.

Meany will not be able to influence the rank and file members of organized labor on how to vote or how not to vote. They will make up their own minds and will vote accordingly.

As a matter of fact, he isn't exactly setting himself up as a pillar of good government when he declares he will not vote for either President Nixon or Senator McGovern.

One of them guite obviously will be the next President of the United States. Casting a vote for any other candidate for the Presidency would be a waste of that vote.

Persons in so exalted a position as George Meany should be urging their fellow citizens to turn out and vote for a Presidential candidate. Instead, he sets the poorest kind of example for them by declaring that he will not vote for either contender for the Presidency.

However, the Nixon lead is so big today that it is difficult to see how McGovern can overtake him unless the Nixon camp commits a major blunder.

George McGovern Should Not Be Under-Estimated In Race

Political pundits who saw George McGovern come from nowhere to win the Democratic nomination for President would do well not to under-estimate him in the Presidential race that is now beginning.

McGovern Not Interested In Saving Parochial Schools

Persons high in the councils of Senator McGovern's organization disclose that McGovern does not believe in the principle of helping parochial schools and does not consider that aiding parochial schools is important to the country.

They also reveal that McGovern feels the United States should follow a "balanced" policy in the Middle East - a policy of equal friendliness toward both Israel and the Arabs.

Senator McGovern dodged the parochial school issue while he was campaigning in the Nebraska Presinamed co-chairmen for the 26th Annual Dinner Meeting dential Primary. At that time he denied a charge that of the Greater Boston Chap- he is opposed to aiding parochial schools.

While McGovern has declared great friendship for Israel, those close to him say he will not modify his "balanced" approach to the Middle East.

The GOP conclave probably will be a dull, drab afal Convention when he announced that Spiro Agnew fair, with everything spelled out in advance and carefully planned.

But there may be enough action and excitement

A big demonstration is planned by the Yippics while the Republican politicos are endorsing President Nixon for a second term.

Jerry Rubin, head of the Yippies, declares that thousands of members of his organization will be on the march in Miami Beach during the GOP convention.

In the not too distant past cities vied with each other to attract national conventions because of the money the delegates and their wives spent in hotels, restaurants and stores while attending the conventions.

Now, in order to maintain a semblance of peace and avert violence, city officials such as Mayor Hall are virtually blackmailed into providing campsites, sanitation facilities and even food and health care for organizations such as the Yippies.

Mayor Hall, for instance, showed a letter he had received from the head of the National Socialist White People's party, a neo-Nazi organization with headquarters in Arlington, Va., declaring that between 1600 and Richard M. This, of course, costs money, entirely apart from the nuisance they create in the city and the additional police who must be assigned to duty

The people in Miami Beach don't want any more national conventions. Since they elect the officials who run the city, their wishes will carry some weight in 1976.
